COLORADO COLLEGE RAISES ENTIRE FUND OF $300,000

Tremendous Work by Dr. Slocum on Last Day of Time Limit Results in Donation of $8,000 to Make Up Deficit.

The entire fund of $300,000 on which President W. F. Slocum of Colorado college has been working for the last two years was completed shortly before midnight last Saturday in time to comply with the conditions imposed by the general education board of New York city and by Andrew Carnegie, who recently promised $13,000 to the fund on condition that the entire $300,000 be pledged by June 1 of this year. Announcement of the completion of the fund was made yesterday. Of this amount $100,000 was given by Mrs. A. D. Juilliard of New York, a cousin of Dr. Slocum, for the erection of the new men's building which is to be named the Frederick H. Cossitt memorial hall in honor of the donor's father. The remaining $90,000 just completed will become a part of the permanent endowment fund of the college, which will now be slightly in excess of $1,000,000.

Two weeks ago this morning there still remained $12,000 to be subscribed, and some of the college already had contributed so heavily to the fund that it seemed an almost impossible task to complete the amount needed. The prospect of losing the last $100,000 pledged condition that the entire sum be completed before midnight of May 31 was so great, however, that friends tried to the work.

Strenuous Work by President: Saturday morning, there remained $12,000 to be secured. During the day Dr. Slocum secured an additional $100, leaving $8,000 to be raised before midnight. This amount was the limit to the whole situation. A conference was held with a warm friend of the college, and a guarantee of this amount was made with the hope that this balance may be raised by other subscriptions before commencement.

Shortly before midnight Dr. Slocum sent a letter to the general education board, which had made the first conditional pledge of $50,000, also to Andrew Carnegie, who had indicated that the entire sum must be completed before June 1 to secure his $100,000.

Yesterday's work practically closed a campaign which was begun in April, 1911, to raise the endowment fund of Colorado college to $1,000,000. It has been the ambition of Dr. Slocum since he came to the college as president 25 years ago.

RIVAL COMMANDERS

WILL FIGHT REBELS

Enemies in Madero Quarrel to Help Put Down the Zapatistas

EL PASO, Tex., June 1.—Generals Antonio Rabago and Pascual Orozco, Jr., who met as enemies in the Madero revolution, together will conduct the campaign against the Zapatista rebels of southern Mexico. General Rabago, recently removed as military governor of Chihuahua state, departed today from his way to Mexico City by way of New Orleans and Havana.

General Rabago and Orozco will meet at the national capital to plan operations against the stubborn rebel leader of Morelos. At the battle of Bauche, in the first revolution, Rabago, then cavalry colonel, broke through Orozco's insurgents and entered Juarez. For this Rabago received a general commission. It was Orozco's first humiliating defeat. Now Rabago and Orozco have been chosen by President Huerta to undertake the difficult problem of suppressing Zapatista who has been in almost continuous insurrection.

Their removal to the south will leave the northern situation in the hands of General Tellez, in Coahuila, General Madero in Chihuahua, and General Ojeda in Sonora. All virtually are new men in northern campaigns and of little prominence in former revolutions.

General Rabago leaves Morelos in a difficult situation in Chihuahua, where the entire southern part of the state is in control of the constitutionalists with only the state capital and Juarez held by the federales. Tellez is threatened by attack at Guaymas, alone held by the federales in Sonora. Tellez is undertaking the struggle against the Carranza insurgents of Coahuila so unsuccessfully waged by Teófilo Alvarado, who officially is said to have been removed to Mexico City.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., June 1.—General Lucio Blanco, commander of the rebel troops in the state of Tamaulipas, Mexico, sent what he declared to be a final demand for the surrender of Matamoros today. The demand, delivered by a representative of United States Consul John H. Johnson, was ignored and tonight the revolutionary troops moved closer to the city. One force of 200 men is within two miles of Matamoros and evidently making preparations to seize the electric-light plant which furnishes the current for the electrified barbed wires stretched around the city. Blanco and the main body of his troops are encamped on a ranch four miles from Matamoros.

Major Barragan of Matamoros, protested when the request for surrender was delivered through the American consulate. Mr. Johnson explained that the letter was addressed to him for delivery to the federal commander. He is at his home, 1611 Wood venue.

ENTIRE FAMILY KILLED IN DUEL

MAN AND WIFE SHOOT EACH OTHER

Mother Believed to Have Shot

Fatal Wound

THE COLONEL AND SOME OF HIS
WITNESSES AT MARQUETTE.

GRANGE, June 1.—In a duel between Robert Stanley and his wife, which is believed to have occurred at their ranch home, 50 miles northeast of here yesterday, the entire Stanley family was killed, according to information telegraphed to "Group W" Church here this afternoon by Charles Scott, a neighbor. The body of the young daughter of the family was found by the side of her father and revolvers were found lying at the sides of husband and wife.

In the body of the girl were found two bullet wounds from the calibre revolver which was found by the mother, leading to the belief that the mother herself inflicted the fatal wound upon the girl rather than have her remain unprotected in the world after she realized that both she and her husband were dying.

The Stanley ranch is 15 miles from the nearest telephone station and detailed information concerning the tragedy was unavailable tonight.

The bodies were found lying upon the floor of a bedroom in the home when Scott went to the Stanley ranch to visit. According to his story, he at first thought the family had been poisoned in some manner and stooped over the dead man in an effort to revive him. Then he saw a number of bullet wounds in the body and realized that Stanley was dead. A hasty investigation assured him that the entire family had been wiped out and he hastened to the nearest town, Grover, and telephoned to Grover for the coroner who left here at 2 o'clock this afternoon in an automobile. He will not reach Stanley ranch until tomorrow.

According to reports, the Stanleys were a young couple and the daughter was yet a baby. Nothing is known of their family life and no reason which might have provoked the duel has been given by persons who knew them. Some of the neighbors believe that the family was murdered by an outsider and that the two revolvers were placed in the home as a "blind."

$163,000 DEPOSITED IN NINE CITIES

New Policy of Demanding Interest Is Received Favorably

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Secretary McAdoo announced tonight the distribution by states of the additional summing of federal funds which the Treasury department will deposit in the national banks.

Of the $30 active depositary banks on May 15 when the secretary issued his interest order, Mr. McAdoo said only seven have declined to pay the interest charge and agreed to go to government depositories, surrendering their federal funds to the treasury. The $10,000 and this surrendered amount aggregating $11,381,500, has been apportioned in various amounts among 600 national banks in 65 cities and towns in the 48 states and the District of Columbia.

The seven banks unwilling to pay interest, the secretary said, were:

The National City Bank, the National Bank of Commerce and the Central National Bank of New York city, the National Bank of Commerce of New London, Conn., the Merchants National Bank of Savannah, Ga., the First National Bank of Buffalo, N. Y., and the Seaboard National Bank of San Francisco.

The secretary announced he had reduced the government deposits in a number of banks which he said will with the close of the last administration hold amounts which seemed to be excessive or unjustified, i.e., reductions in most cases being made against the interests of the bank who desired to retain the funds notwithstanding the interest charge.

Under the distribution of the new deposits, the eight middle states will receive $2,332,000, placed in 161 banks in 13 cities; the nine western states $5,000 in 7 banks in 10 cities; and the seven Pacific states $1,054,500 in 42 banks in 30 cities.

Apportionments were made on the basis of population, capital and surplus, needs of the respective sections of the country and the circulation status of the banks.

The apportionment by states includes the following:

State	April Banks	Bank Cities
Arkansas	3,600	2
Colorado	16,000	14
Illinois	10,000	3
Michigan	16,000	1
Mississippi	16,000	2
Texas	125,000	5
Utah	125,000	2
Wyoming	14,000	2

POPE IS 76 YEARS OLD TODAY; GRIMING IN HEALTH

ROME, June 1.—The pope will be seventy-eight years old tomorrow and innumerable telegrams and messages from all parts of the world are arriving, felicitating the pontiff and wishing him many happy years of life. The pope will spend his birthday quite quietly, admitting only relatives and members of his entourage to his apartments.

The pope received in audience today Cardinal O'Connell, Mar. Michael J. Spilane and Fr. J. R. Slatery of Boston.

Fr. Slatery was the first physician received by the pope since his illness, with the exception of his personal attendants.

When he left the audience room, Fr. Slatery said: "No doctor could fail to note that the pope has robust and healthy fiber. I could tell from the green of his hand and the vivacity of his eyes that the pontiff remains plenty of life; that the pontiff has many years to live."

Indian Leader of Rebels Is Scalped, Killed Six Himself

LAREDO, Tex., June 1.—Mexican federal soldiers, returning to Nuevo Laredo today from Colombia, where they routed 300 rebels, yesterday brought the scalp of Captain Longoria, rebel commander, as a gruesome trophy of their victory. Longoria and 21 of his followers were killed, six federales also were killed, all of them, it is stated, by bullets from Longoria's revolver.

Longoria, an Indian, organized his band and swore vengeance on the federales when a relative named Pancho was hanged at Matamoros as a rebel spy.

After the government troops started on their return march to Nuevo Laredo, another band of rebels moved to Colombia from Hidalgo, and took possession of the town.

WOMAN FRAMES RESOLUTION ALL WILL BE THOROUGH

Says Lorimer Directed Fight Against Initiative and Referendum

CHICAGO, June 1.—The Chicago Federation of Labor, at its regular meeting today, readopted its resolution of May 18, in which it was declared that collusion between members of the legislature and William Lorimer defeated the initiative and referendum bill. The members of the federation in reading the resolution declared that they were willing to go to jail if necessary.

The resolution declared that Lorimer had a hand in the initiation of the bill at the session of the legislature, and directed the battle against the bill.

Representative David Shanahan was charged with taking orders from the Peabody Coal company. In addition to the original charges, today's resolution denounced the legislature's action as governed by avarice, unfair play and political trickery. Members of the federation appeared before the legislature May 27 to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt. The legislature passed a vote of censure against those responsible for the resolution.

Mrs. Margaret Haly, said to be the real author of the offending resolution, told the federation today that the legislature had been asked to summon her to the witness stand. She said that she was present when the initiative and referendum bill was defeated, and that she saw Lorimer active about the assembly and committee rooms.

What part President Wilson will take in the inquiry they have not learned but the president openly stated that he welcomed the inquiry and that he had information regarding a tariff lobby which would submit to the investigators.

The first witness will be Senator Arthur Bacon, Rankin, and Bryan.

Lobby Big Sensation:

The lobby investigation will begin tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock. Each member of the senate will be called on to tell what he knows about a tariff lobby and to go to record as to his personal affairs and professional associations that may relate to any item in the tariff bill.

What part President Wilson will take in the inquiry they have not learned but the president openly stated that he welcomed the inquiry and that he had information regarding a tariff lobby which would submit to the investigators.

The first witness will be Senator Arthur Bacon, Rankin, and Bryan.

Mine Probe Thorough:

The West Virginia investigation, authorized to be conducted by the education and labor committee of the senate, will be initiated tomorrow by a subcommittee composed of Senators Swanson, Shields, Marine, Borah and Kenyon. It will meet first in Washington and after may proceed to the Paint Creek coal region. The inquiry probably will be extended over many weeks.

Democratic leaders of the house are planning to register, as far as possible, legislation at this session to tariff, currency and any appropriations that may be deemed imperative. This plan is favored by Representative Underwood of Alabama, the majority leader, and he will propose it in a resolution to be presented at a caucus of the house Democrats tomorrow. All the house committees will be named and they may consider pending matters with a view to action at the next regular session of congress in December.

Wilson Starts Things:

Not a week passes that President Wilson does not start something to shake up the presidents and keep Congress busy. His denunciation of the tariff lobby in the week just passed marked the climax in a series of unusual executive acts and has precipitated an inquiry the like of which never has been known in legislative annals of the nation.

Both Democrats and Republicans of congress are busy now planning reorganization for the coming campaign. The Democratic congressional committee expects to reorganize tomorrow night.

The Republican congressional committee will meet to organize.

First a conference will be held looking to cooperation between the national and congressional committees in managing campaigns. The conference for the national committee will be Chairman C. D. Hiles, Senators Crane of Massachusetts, Jackson of Maryland, and Sanders of Tennessee, and for the congressional committee, Senator Weeks of Massachusetts, and Representative Burke of South Dakota.

NEW BILL WOULD LIMIT
LESS DESIRABLE CLASS OF IMMIGRANTS, PUT IN TODAY

WASHINGTON, June 1.—An attempt to limit immigration from southern Europe and Asiatic countries, without the use of the "literacy test," upon which President Taft placed his disapproval in the last session of congress, is embodied in a bill to be introduced in the senate tomorrow by Senator Dillingham, chairman of the former immigration commission.

Senator Dillingham's bill will propose restriction upon the number of immigrants from any country, to be fixed at 10 per cent of the number of persons of similar nationality who were shown to be residents of the United States at the time of the last census. The senator estimates that his new method of limiting immigration would greatly reduce the annual influx from Italy, Austria-Hungary, Greece and Turkey, and at the same time would allow an increase in the number of immigrants who might enter from Germany, Great Britain, Sweden, Norway and all countries of northern and western Europe.

Mr. Sibilia was appointed to his present post in 1908. ## London Suffragettes Defy Police and Speak Under Male Protection

LONDON, June 1.—Defying the police order closing Hyde park to their meetings, the Women's Social and Political Union sent speakers there today, who held forth for a long time under the protection of male sympathizers armed with clubs.

When the comparatively peaceful non-militant organizations which still are permitted to use the park finished their customary Sunday demonstrations, flags of the Women's Social and Political Union were raised at 12 different points, and as many speakers harangued the crowds.

Mobs of men and boys started to rush the speakers, many women men found themselves menaced by disciplined body guards wielding stout clubs. The crowds had to content themselves with boozing and singing while the police looked on without attempting to check the speakers.

The machoer dividing the gathering into sections proved completely successful and the body guard of each division was able to protect the women.

GOVERNMENT TO HELP FARMERS IN PROBLEMS

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The "rural organization service," a new branch of the department of agriculture, which includes a division of markets as one of its principal activities, will begin actual operation tomorrow with the arrival of Dr. Thomas N. Carver of Harvard university, selected some time ago to head the service.

The department announced today that the efforts to study the farmers' needs and then meet them would fall into three main groups. There will be "surveys" to get at the basic facts regarding various kinds of organized rural agencies that already have been tried to discover how and why they have failed or why they are succeeding; there will be investigations in certain regional cities and among certain kinds of agricultural interests to discover the reasons for existing rural conditions and then certain units of territory will be selected in which to make demonstrations and experiments with schemes designed to improve the farmers' financial, physical and social condition.

Contracts like that just made with Safford are now in force with Cascade, Colorado Springs, Durango, and Manitou in Colorado; Salt Lake in Utah; and Baker City and The Dalles, Oregon. The famous Bull Run watershed, which supplies Portland, Ore., on the Oregon National Forest.

The cooperative agreement in each case provides that the land may not be used without approval by the town except for the protection and care of the forests. The government agrees to extend and improve the forests by seedling, planting and forest management, so far as the funds for that purpose are available. The city, for its part, assists by paying the salaries of the additional guards necessary to carry out the agreement, and contracts to bear the greater part of the cost of any improvement work which it considers immediately desirable.

The scene at the wharf when the Senator sailed was reminiscent of Klondike days. The pier was crowded with Alaskans and friends of those aboard the Senator.

The Senator will be followed tomorrow by four steamships bound for the same port. The liner Victoria will carry 665 passengers and a full cargo of freight and three freighters will take big shipments of provisions and mining supplies for Nome and adjacent mining camps.

PRESIDENT AND MANY OFFICIALS HONOR DEAD

WASHINGTON, June 1.—President Wilson and members of his cabinet, high officers of the army and navy and many other national figures were in a great throng which gathered at Cathedral Close, Mount Saint Alban, today to attend the annual memorial services for those who lost their lives in the Spanish-American War. The United Spanish War Veterans conducted the exercises and principal addresses were by Chaplin G. L. Bayard, U. S. N. and the Rev. Alfred Harding, bishop of Washington.

WOMEN CANDIDATES LOSE IN AUSTRALIAN ELECTION

MELBOURNE, Australia, June 2.—While returns from the federal elections Saturday are still far from being complete, the Argus estimates the result for the house of representatives with 15 seats, as follows:

Labour, 22; Liberals, 35; Independent, 1; In the election of 1910 the returns showed: Labor, party, 44; Fusionists, 29; Independent Liberals, 2. The age estimates a Liberal gain of 11 and a Labor gain of 7.

So far as can be told the three women candidates were unsuccessful. Miss Goldstein, Independent, in one of the Victoria districts polled 10,000, against 14 for her Liberal opponent.

BOY'S INVENTION SHOWS OLD MAN EUCLID WRONG: DEVICE IS WONDERFUL

PHILADELPHIA, June 1.—What is declared by prominent authorities on higher mathematics to be the greatest invention of its kind is being demonstrated by its inventor, Sydney A. Gross, a 16-year-old student of the Central High school of this city. The device is an angle sector, which mathematicians who have examined the instrument say is capable of dividing any angle, not a right angle, and which they say has proved erroneous the prevailing theory since Euclid's time that there was no practical method of trisecting such angles.

Mobs of men and boys started to rush the speaker, many women men found themselves menaced by disciplined body guards wielding stout clubs. The crowds had to content themselves with boozing and singing while the police looked on without attempting to check the speakers.

The machoer dividing the gathering into sections proved completely successful and the body guard of each division was able to protect the women.

TEN MILLION ROAD BOND ISSUE PAID OFF TODAY

NEW YORK, June 1.—Negotiations by the Mexican government of a foreign loan of approximately $100,000,000 for governmental purposes and an account of the National Railways of Mexico, having been completed, local bankers interested in the matter announced tonight the issue of $16,000,000 two-year notes of the National Railways of Mexico, maturing tomorrow, will be paid. Conferences among the bankers interested yesterday at which ways and means for meeting the maturing railway notes were discussed, was followed in last night by an announcement from Mexico City that the loan pending in Paris, through which it was hoped the problem of railroad financing would be solved, had been successfully negotiated.

The railroad's finances are closely interlocked with those of the Mexican government itself, as the National Railways is a government enterprise. Announcements of the committee in regard to government and railroad financing are expected tomorrow. The Mexican government loan, it was stated by bankers here tonight, is $15,000,000 and the National Railways of Mexico loan about $87,000,000.

Wounded Boy in 47 Places; to Be Tried for Murder in July

ST. PETERSBURG, June 1.—The ministry of justice has ordered the trial in June or early in July of Mendo Belliss, accused of the murder of a Christian boy, Andrew Yushchinsky, on March 25, 1911, near Kieff. It is announced that the prosecutor will uphold the theory of ritual murder and that probably the trial will be held behind closed doors.

The mutilated body of Andrew Yushchinsky, a 13-year-old boy, was discovered in a small cave on a suburban holding just outside of Kieff. The bands were tied behind the back, and the post mortem examination revealed not fewer than 47 wounds.

Belliss, who was a clerk in a brick factory nearby, was arrested on the charge of being directly concerned in the murder. He has been held in close confinement ever since. According to the official medical evidence quoted in the indictment all the wounds were inflicted while the boy was alive.

Numerous witnesses have already been examined and their testimony has been incorporated in the indictment, which concludes:

"On the basis of these facts Belliss is charged with entering into a conspiracy with other undiscovered persons to deprive the boy Yushchinsky of his life by methods of torture, and with having perpetrated or connived at the atrocities perpetrated on the boy."

Even, her maid, deserted Madeline, who is left alone, lamenting when an artist, companion of her earlier student days, calls, bringing a portrait of her mother. He invites Madeline to accompany him to his parents' house, bidding her don her maid's raiment instead of her own, as his folks were in humble circumstances.

Madeline realized that the popular idol after all means little in comparison with the sweet joys of family affection and decides to pass her New Year's eve alone save for the company of her mother's portrait.

At the Metropolitan production the role of Madeline will be sung by Mme. Alida, and that of the painter by Scott.

"Following the Covent Garden season," continued Signor Polacco, "I shall go to the Italian mountains to study the score of 'Madeline.'

"While I have not been enthusiastic to translate French, Italian, and German operas into English, I believe that this is a truly great and powerful work and will be a future inspiration to English and American composers."

"Another important work," he said, "the Metropolitan next season will be 'Mme. Sans Gene,' by Giscard."

Cantata to be Repeated.

So successful was the production of the cantata, "David the Shepherd Boy" at the Buena Vista school last Thursday evening that it will be repeated this evening in Manitou, under the auspices of Chapter K. P. E. O. The cantata was given under the direction of Mr. Earle Faber, and leading parts were taken by Mr. Earle, Miss Threlkeld, Mrs. C. E. Spencer and Mr. Lee Bright. The production will be given in the auditorium of the Manitou High school.

"Pilgrim's Progress" at Y. W. C. A.

The wisdom of arranging the series of talks on "Great Books as Life Teachers" in connection with the Sunday evening services of the Young Women's Christian Association was shown yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Frank Hale Tourel spoke on "Pilgrim's Progress." While everybody is more or less familiar with the beautiful story, yet life is too full nowadays for anybody to do much reading, and many of the misfortunes and mistakes of Christian slip from the mind, which sees new truth in them when they are recalled as they were yesterday. Mrs. Tourel told of only the first half of the book.

TARIFF UNCERTAINTY

THE Tacoma Commercial Club makes a sensible suggestion in asking that the commercial influence of the entire country be exerted to end the tariff suspense as soon as possible. It recalls that while the tariff act of 1894 was pending there were seven months of uncertainty while the bill was in the Senate, which was chiefly responsible for the general stagnation of business that followed.

There seems to be less general complaint about the present tariff revision than is usually heard at such times. Of course the sugar and woolen and other big interests are howling lustily, but that was to be expected and the public doesn't care much anyway. Everybody knew even before the election last November that a Democratic victory would be followed by a deep tariff cut. For that matter, everybody knew that the tariff would be revised downward regardless of which party won. The revision has been expected, and, insofar as possible, its ill effects have been discounted by commercial interests. But the readjustment is necessarily slow and incomplete. At present there is a good deal of uncertainty as to what the ultimate effect will be, a desire to have the matter settled as quickly as possible so that business can be resumed on the new basis.

Congress owes it to the country to have the gong over with without unnecessary delay, and the advent of sizzling weather in Washington will doubtless provide whatever stimulus may be needed in addition to the prodding of President Wilson, the press and the commercial organizations.

THOSE SOUTHERN DELEGATES

THE proposal to rehabilitate the Republican party by changing the system of representation in national conventions has, of course, caused a despairing wait to go up from the Sunay South. Under the present system, whereby each state is represented in the convention according to its total population rather than the number of Republican votes it casts, has long enabled the South to hold the balance of power in the nominating conventions and thus to dictate nominations and write platforms.

Yet there is not and never has been a real Republican party in the South. Such as it is it consists mostly in times of party ascendancy of Federal officeholders and their retinues of sable retainers. Yet under the abominable system of representation, these men can go into the national convention and outvote delegates from the northern states who represent a constituency of five or six times as many Republicans.

Mr. Walter Johnson of Atlanta, Georgia, who is said to be a Republican leader in that section, expresses the hope that the proposal to change the system of representation will be defeated because it is "unjust to southern Republicans." He thinks that if it is adopted it will mean the practical destruction of the Republican party in the South.

It would be highly interesting if Mr. Johnson would explain by what right the Republican party in the South exists. In the more than half century of its life it has never given its electoral vote to the Republican party, and it has almost never carried a state ticket or elected a congressman. Within the last decade Kentucky and Missouri have on occasion gone Republican, but the Solid South is as solid today as it was just after the war. The Republican party there has existed merely to provide Federal jobs for the elect.

The system which makes these conditions possible ought to have been terminated long ago, for it has steadily sapped the vitality of the party throughout the nation. As much as any other one factor it was responsible for the smash-up last summer, and the party never can be patched up until it is changed.

THE POSTAL "SURPLUS"

THE Postoffice Department has faced a chronic deficit from the beginning. True, it never was expected to earn a profit, but sound business methods should have made it self-sustaining long ago. Whenever it showed signs of getting out of the hole Congress has increased its burdens in order to make it more useful to the people, as when the rural free delivery service was introduced fifteen years ago. Nevertheless every Postmaster General has striven to make his accounts balance at the end of the year, but none of them succeeded until Hitchcock came.

A few years ago that gentleman astonished the country by announcing in his annual report that the deficit, which had been $17,500,000 in 1909, had been reduced in 1910 and converted into a surplus of more than $200,000 in 1911. The administration organs immediately hailed Hitchcock as a financial wizard who had attained the unattainable. Less enthusiastic observers remarked that if he had actually converted a deficit into a surplus it had been done at the expense of efficiency, for his retrenchment policy had undoubtedly impaired the usefulness of the service to the public.

Now comes Mr. Hitchcock's successor, Postmaster General Burleson, with a statement that the deficit never ceased to exist and that the surplus was merely a figment of Mr. Hitchcock's imagination. In 1911, he says, there was a deficit of more than $750,000, instead of a surplus of $200,000. It's all a matter of "unjustifiable methods of bookkeeping," and Mr. Burleson adds that the efficiency and morale of the postal service were sacrificed to a "ruthlessly enforced policy of false economy."

Of course the people want the Postoffice Department in common with all branches of the government administered economically. But they do not want economy at the expense of good service and they are strongly opposed to juggling figures for political effect, which was what Mr. Hitchcock did. Incidentally, the Burleson report ought to make interesting reading for Professor Taft, who at the time lauded his Postmaster General as the greatest executive the Department had ever had.

THE BEEF SUPPLY

ACCORDING to the president of the Stockyards' National Bank, in Chicago, the total number of cattle in the country has decreased from 72,534,000 head on January 1, 1907, to 56,527,000 head on January 1, 1913. The decrease has been entirely among the beef cattle, for there has even been a slight increase of milk cows, of which there are more than 20,000,000 head. This means that there are 35,000,000 head of beef cattle, and if the shrinkage in the next six years is as great as in the last six years they will be reduced to less than 20,000,000 head.

How stockmen would have laughed at a prediction, twenty years ago, that by the year 1913 the United States would be importing beef! But it is now doing it right along, and there is every reason for believing that the business will grow rapidly and soon attain an immense volume. It cannot be otherwise. The open range on which the immense herds of a quarter century ago were raised at little cost is now a thing of the past; it has been replaced by farms. In two decades our population has increased about 25,000,000, which means that many more mouths to be fed. The domestic demand is steadily increasing, while the domestic supply is steadily diminishing.

The effort to supply the demand with home-grown beef has forced prices to almost prohibitive figures, and it was inevitable that foreign growers would take advantage of the opportunity. Hereafter the American people will get more and more of their beef from Australia and Argentina.

FRO! OTHER FENS
NOT UP WITH FASHION

From the Pittsburgh Dispatch
It appears that the Filipino women are not up with the march of progress. The question of dress there reveals the conflict of the old and new ideas. Perhaps it was the fault of the insular government in trying, though cautiously, to influence the customs and costumes of the female natives, but anyhow, the eternal feminine seems to have got the better of the first exchange of shots.

The government paternalistically, though very tentatively, suggested that if the native ladies would consent to cut off a few inches of the trim which end their voluminous skirts, they would sweep fewer germs from their households. But the recipients of this advice, woman-like, refused to accept any distinction between "skirts that just 'clap' the ground and the hobble fashion of which they seem to be fully informed. They scoffed at this proposal, so scheme to turn them into hobble skirts and indignantly rejected the idea.

"If we are to be short-skirted like the Americans," one of them is quoted as saying, "why not tight-skirted, like the 'fashionable'?" Thus does the female mind refuse to accept the new fashions before they reach them by the recognized channels—which in the case of Manila we suppose to be via Hongkong. By the time that the new fashions have brought back the sweeping train, the Filipino woman may be ready to don the short and even the tight skirts. In which case, we do not scruple to say their pegged-up fashions will be the more sensible.

HARD ON THE CLASSICS.
From the Chicago Tribune
The American reading public is frequently criticised for neglecting the classics. It is charged with giving preference to the ephemeral books of the day rather than to the books written for all time and for all mankind. But blame for this situation perhaps may fall less upon the public than upon the publishers of books.

In Germany the classics, not only of that country but of all other countries, have been made accessible to the people. They are printed in pocket editions on excellent paper, with clear type, and are sold at extremely reasonable prices. You can get the works of Goethe for from $1.50 to $3, depending upon whether they are cloth or paper bound. You can get the philosophers Schopenhauer and Spinoza for 20 cents a volume in paper binding and for about 35 cents in cloth binding. If you take a day's journey on the train, you can stuff your pockets with half a dozen volumes of the world's greatest poets, philosophers, or fiction writers at an expense of not more than 50 cents.

In the United States we seem to publish books more for display than for use. A volume of an edition of Dickens or Thackeray which fills an entire bookcase does not lend itself to be taken for reading on a railway journey. It is a piece of furniture to be kept in a glass case. The classics will be widely read in this country when they are made more accessible. So far American publishers have done little to bring them within the reach of the people.

From the San Francisco Chronicle
As regards art, it is the English Annals that no less than 40 American artists are represented by pictures at the Paris National Salon. To have secured 100 out of a total of 1,300 selected canvases is a remarkable achievement, especially since the fact is coupled with the comment that our quality surpasses that of other foreign artists.

In painting Paris still speaks for the art world and the seal of her approval is the most highly prized. True, she has fostered many a passing craze in form and color, such as the cubists and futurists, but they are only used as the freaks for her shop window, though cubists and futurists have ceased to draw even in that way. When it comes to decorating the great galleries, she chooses only the best and the abiding.

To the art student the dispatch quoted will occasion no surprise, though it may to many Americans who do not know how good our art really is. Many of our painters, like some of our prophets, have been more honored abroad. Confidence in our own judgment has not kept abreast of our growth in creative art.

Kenyon Cox, after a recent trip to Europe and a study of the famous galleries, said he firmly believed American art is "the best art now being produced in the world, that has the most in common with the great art of the past and the largest promise for the art of the future."

He added that the more he saw of the great masterpieces of the Renaissance the more he found himself saying, "This is what we, in America, have been trying to do." And, strangely enough, when he sought for causes he found one in the fact that the painters of the New World were not being led away by the thirst for meretricious novelty.

To the comparative conservatism of American painting, Kenyon Cox attributes the "excellence which he spoke of some time before his verdict was endorsed by this news from Paris. That indorsement strengthens his appeal that the duty of the American people to American art is "patronize it as intelligently as possible, but patronize it."

He was not a lovely character.

PETER THE GREAT

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

Peter the Great's real name was Peter Alexievitch. He was the most prominent member of the great Tsar family of Russia, and during his career entirely overshadowed the equally exalted Ots, Ovs and Owsks families of his time.

Peter was born to a life in the royal family, and at a very early age governed Russia with his brother Ivan. In 1689 Ivan retired, and Peter, at the age of 16 took over the entire stock, fixtures and good will of the empire, and ran it himself for the rest of his life.

At this time Russia was in a very low state of civilization, being about 10,000 years behind the rest of Europe.

In the early days of his reign Peter

Tea Drinking Rooms Spring Up In America as Custom Dies in England

From the Denver Republican

Like many institutions transplanted from the old world to the new, afternoon tea drinking promises to become all the more flourishing here as it loses prestige in the land that has so long cherished it as one of its most distinctive institutions.

The news that the king and queen of England are omitting afternoon tea is almost as much of a shock to the true custom as are Lloyd George's insurance projects. It is generally reported that when their majesties recently visited Wales they refused to accept the tea proffered them by the wife of a collier, the king remarking that he seldom took tea. Even more noteworthy was the incident of the king, queen and Princess Mary spending the time from half past 3 in the afternoon until looking at the animals in the zoological gardens without stopping for tea. Fancy.

Thereupon a well-known and evidently loyal physician hastened to defend the royal position, asserting that able-bodied persons did not need afternoon tea. Three full meals—a hearty breakfast, a light luncheon and a five or six-course dinner—are ample for the average man or woman, he insisted.

It, however, one feels that he cannot forego the tea, says the same doctor, it should be used only as a refreshment, a cup of tea, with a biscuit or a piece of bread and butter.

To sit down in the afternoon to tea, bread and butter, jam, cake and pastry, he holds to be altogether wrong. To make a meal of afternoon tea is excusable only in young children and old persons who require an extra amount of nutriment.

In the United States we have the advantage of having taken our afternoon tea lightly. We have not bowed down before it nor set it up as a thing of supreme importance. Neither have we gourmandized nor made ourselves dependent upon this meal. Yet we like it, and as a pleasurable function it is gaining ground.

No Tea Rooms Decade Ago.
Ten years ago there was not a tea room in New York. Now there are scores. Men were very shy about entering them at first, but a man no longer apologizes for his presence in the tea room. That he is not more frequently there is because, for the most part, he is too busy for that or for any other daytime pleasure except important events like baseball games.

The tea room has an air of grace and harmony, though that appeals strongly to women. Moreover, it generally has attractive adjuncts—antiques, home-made cookery, or hand-sewed articles for sale, so that one may combine a little shopping with an hour's rest and a cup of tea.

Such formal divisions as the "plain tea" and the "complete tea" are not known here. Tea has not crystallized into anything absolutely definite and unchangeable. It shades off from tea into a dozen different things, any one of which is considered appropriate to the tea hour. Instead of tea itself, there may be coffee or chocolate, and with these may be served anything from a club sandwich to a cream puff. Ice cream and sundries are favorite forms of afternoon tea.

Another change Americans have made is the serving of lemon as a substitute for the milk or cream, which is inexcusable with English tea. Also, we like it weak, which is far cry from the British taste. The hot water pot here is as important a part of the service as is the teapot itself. The "caddy," which adorns the foreign tea table, is infrequently used here. Only extremists for afternoon tea as it always has been of persons who have a liking for novelties add the "caddy."

In City and Country.
It is not only in the city that the tea room has established itself firmly in the United States. Throughout the country there are to be seen little cottages with rustic signs inviting the traveler to stop at "Ye Good Tea Shop," and hotels that bear evidence of their tea room. Before it had spread to rural regions, two city women much adored tea, and lamenting their inability to find it when they went for pleasant walks or drives, made a vow Dr. Wiley.

REV. M. N. SMITH DELIVERS BACCALAUREATE SERMON BEFORE HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES

The Rev. Merle N. Smith, pastor of the First Methodist church, delivered the baccalaureate sermon before the graduating class of the Colorado Springs High school at the regular services at his church last night. The sermon was directed particularly to the 100 members of the graduating class, but the church was crowded to the limit for the sermon.

Special seats were reserved for the class, which met at the High school domestic science building and marched to the church, entering in single file between rows of the faculty.

The class day exercises will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the auditorium of the High school and tomorrow evening Principal and Mrs. R. C. Hill will give reception to the faculty and members of the senior class at their home, 329 East Cache la Poudre street. Commencement exercises proper will be held Thursday evening at the Burns theater, when Dr. A. E. Winslow of Boston will deliver the principal address. The alumni reception will be held Friday evening at the Antlers hotel.

The baccalaureate sermon yesterday was in part as follows:

Baccalaureate Sermon

The subject upon which I am to speak by courtesy of the invitation of this class was arranged in the words of St. John, second chapter, nineteenth verse: "I have written unto you, because ye are strong." I desire to use these words without reference to the context, and as addressed to young manhood and young womanhood.

Power is of compelling interest, always, everywhere, whether seen in the rushing locomotive with its nerves of steel and breath of flame, in the blade of grass pushing its way up in spite of the tug and pull of gravitation, in the giant hands and arms of the sea, in the deep-toned voices of the storm, or in God's great sky, where worlds are tossed about as playthings and hurled 70 times faster than a rifle bullet flies, never an inch out of place, and never a second behind time. Power linked to personality, enshrine in a man, is of deeper interest still, whether incarnated in a "Sandow," who can lift a ton, or a Webster holding and thrilling a multitude by the mystic power of eloquence; or a Newton, Hulme, a solitary fact, the falling of an apple, into the majesty of a law of a Maxwell, unravelling the secrets of the air; or Christ saying to the water "mane" and to the waves "still," and like little children they go to sleep. Take power and combine it with love, and you have the noblest thing in the world.

The words of the apostle are the statement of a fact—"Ye are strong." You have physical strength. See two pictures—yonder old man stooped, frail, winter white, painfully taking the last slow steps with staff and crutch, and yonder young man erect, strong, with heart that drives the blood to the tips of the fingers and toes, with ruddy cheek, clear eye, swinging stride, and hand that fails with the weight of a hammer.

Cherish Physical Strength

Cherish your physical strength. Neglect here is the point of danger. We are so ambitious to have our boys and girls shine intellectually, we are anxious to make them encyclopedic in all the arts, that we neglect the first essential, good health. If health will permit them to become scholars, all right; if not, then we choose the scholarship and let health go. Already we have among dispensing, giddy, melancholy preachers and enough neurasthenic, irritable school teachers. In the book, which has more of the magnificent and inscrutable truths than all the literatures of all the world, the human body is honored.

Then you have the power of an awakened intellect. Wonderful are the aptitudes, the powers and possibilities of the awakened mind to widen the world and life, the sky, and wonderful are the products it brings forth. It feeds on stars, and turns them into astronomy; it feeds on strata and turns them into geology; feeds on facts and turns them into a philosophy; feeds on principles and turns them into a religion; feeds on God himself, and turns God into a divine influence of earth. For youth, the mind is at its best, its powers are unimpaired, memory is retentive, its faculties are all alive. It is easy for an awakened mind to grapple with hard problems. Young men are leading today in the world's thought, in the world's commercial, industrial, political ecclesiastical. He is a comparatively young man who sits in the president's chair.

The Spirit of Youth

Also you have the spirit of youth, which is a source of power. Two things constitute the spirit of youth—first, enthusiasm. The word means God within, the divine in the human. Enthusiasm is a galvanic battery. It is the fire underneath the fuel which makes the steam; it is the soul of a man burning hot within him. Occasionally, indeed, there are young people who affect to despise enthusiasm. You will meet, now and then, a young man who scorns interest in anything, social problems, political problems, the trust question, he knows little about them and cares less. This work, he takes no special interest in that, he watches the clock; his efforts—he has no special interest in them. His religion, he takes languidly. He has a desire in the world, and the world soon enough to have a desire. In him, I would say to you, there is your enthusiasm. Keep them to the front, and a more and more correct, living and objects of them. Be tremendous, interested and enthusiastic in something, even if it is nothing bigger than an ant hill. A young woman in New York has lately achieved fame as the result of seven years' study of the civilization of that little folk. She knows more about ants than anyone in the country. The men that have done great things for the world, from St. Paul down to Edison, have been great enthusiasts. The head of the procession looks better than the rear. The only time your unenthusiastic young man will lead the procession is when he is finally taken to the cemetery.

Then you have the power of hope, that shows you the goal before you reach it, that paints fair prospects in the brains of men, that spans and arches with a new, new of promise every cloud of life. You have the power of pure, warm affection, and the strength of unimpaired will.

Statement a Warning

The statement of the apostle is a warning. I write unto you, young men, I warn you, because you are strong. A young man's strength occasions an old man's warning. That is a curious law of our nature by which our very virtues tend to become our vices. Frugality is a noble thing, but it may merge into miserliness. Integrity may become extravagance. Self-respect is noble, but it may glide into vanity. So charity can pass into looseness, and orthodoxy into bigotry.

A. J. BEVERIDGE AMONG GOOD ROADS VISITORS IN COLO. SPRINGS IN JULY

Former United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge, "good roads speaker," as he is listed in the library of the Indiana Automobile Manufacturers association, which will make a trip from Indianapolis to the Pacific coast by way of Colorado Springs, in July, will be one of the prominent men of the group of 150 that will visit this city.

The internationally famed eloquence of the former Hoosier senator is expected to stir this section to greater endeavor along road building than it before has ever put forth. Among other Indianaans on the tour whose names are household words will be Charles A. Bookwalter, former mayor who is now candidate for a third term; Carl G. Fisher, president of the Indianapolis Speedway, and Ray Harroun, who won the 500-mile international contest at Indianapolis in 1911.

Harroun will drive a car equipped with a special carburetor which uses kerosene instead of gasoline. He has given the new type a great deal of study, and the success of the trip may mean a revolution in the design of cars constructed to use kerosene and not gasoline. The annual consumption of gasoline in American cars is 400,000,000 gallons, and the steady increase in the cost of this automobile fuel has led engineers to consider the adoption of kerosene as a substitute.

New York city will spend $300,000,000 on new subway systems. Four years from now the city will be operating 60 miles of subway track in service beneath the city.

ROUNDABOUT ROAD HIGHLY PRAISED; IS LITTLE USED

A Denver paper yesterday published a glowing account of a roundabout road between Denver and Colorado Springs, saying in part:

One hundred and sixty-four miles of the most beautiful scenery in Colorado is to be seen by the motorist who takes the trip to Colorado Springs by way of Night Hawk, Deckers, Woodland Park, Cascade and Manitou. The route is not the one taken by most people because it is about 30 miles longer than the Perry Park road, but those additional 30 miles will in the opinion of many goads over than four hours to complete.

For miles the road is as smooth as a paved boulevard, being a natural road of disintegrated granite. Rains cannot affect the road in any great extent. One panorama after another is revealed to the eyes of the occupants of the car as it smoothly glides to the top of the different hills. In places the route winds through deep and rugged canons, yet the road is still smooth and easily traveled over. There are a few bad down grades on the road and sharp turns which must be carefully negotiated.

The round trip in Colorado Springs by this route is 164.3 miles long, too long to be made with ease in one day, but after reaching Woodland Park, 74 miles distant, small towns are but a few miles apart and support good hotels at which the tourist may stay over night, returning to Denver the next day.

ONE TIME WHEN THE SUFRAZETTES WEAKENED

From the London Telegraph.

At Kings Norton an old King Henry VI school, which has long been closed, was opened recently. On a blackboard was painted: "Two suffragettes have entered here, but charmed with this old world room, have refrained from their design of destruction." The room windows had been forced open to obtain access.

A peach-pitting machine perfected in California is expected to give much help in handling that state's dried fruit. It is said to handle even the softest fruit without damage.

Opening Announcement

The New York Ladies' Tailoring

Late of 29th and 5th Ave., New York

Mr. Mills, proprietor of the above establishment, begs to announce to the ladies of Colorado Springs that owing to the ill health of one member of his family, he was obliged to transfer his business from New York (where he has been established for the last seven years, catering only to the high-class trade, giving satisfaction to the most exclusive set), to Colorado Springs, where he will be pleased to receive orders for tailored gowns in cloth and linen, making a specialty of automobile coats and tourists' suits, assuring the ladies of perfect satisfaction in the lines, fit and workmanship.

The baccalaureate sermon yesterday morning was translated to the pupils of the school by Dr. W. E. Argus, the principal. The three graduates are Charlton Harris of Denver, blind department; John Daniels of Maizie, Colo., and Fred Vollotti of Keota, Colo., both from the deaf department. The program for the graduation exercises this evening is as follows:

DO YOU BELIEVE IN BEING SAFE?

To make assurance doubly sure we would suggest that you insist on a title insurance policy with every loan you make, or every parcel of real estate you purchase. If you invest your money in real estate, you have a right to expect the very best security obtainable. You may have this if you will stand on your rights and demand it. The man who sells real estate or who borrows money on it, will furnish a policy if you require it. Then why not have this guarantee against future dangers?
